

14-16 year olds - A Learning Programme

The creation of the QCF, the new qualifications and the variety of units that are now available, has enabled JACE to propose a new programme of learning for 14-16 year old pupils who take unauthorised absence from school.

Each programme leads the young person to a progressive step on the educational ladder, giving a choice of further training or employment.

The young people are allowed between one and five days attendance maintaining school hours and standard holiday breaks.

As far as possible we work in small groups of 5-6 pupils. When appropriate the young people are offered work experience of their choice.

The aims and objectives of JACE Training for these young people is to awaken their interest in education and rekindle their natural curiosity to learn. To support them in their growth to maturity, confidence and self respect.

Success in the past has been shown by the young people moving into Foundation Learning, Apprenticeships or employment.
