

Information Technology Qualification (ITQ)

ITQ Qualification

Information Technology now forms part of many people's lives whatever their age.

The IT Qualification is ideal for both learners and the experienced computer user.

Each unit is worth a number of credits. They can be taken on their own or used as a stand alone certificate or used towards a bigger qualification.

Unlike many qualifications with ITQ you do not have to complete the assessment in the workplace, but evidence must come from IT activities, undertaken for a specific purpose. All units apart from the mandatory unit can be accredited by prior achievement.

The whole ITQ can be gained at Level 1, Level 2 or Level 3, each level being made up of a number of different units.

Learning Methods Available from JACE:

Information Technology Qualification (ITQ)

ITQ Qualification

There are two types of units in each level:

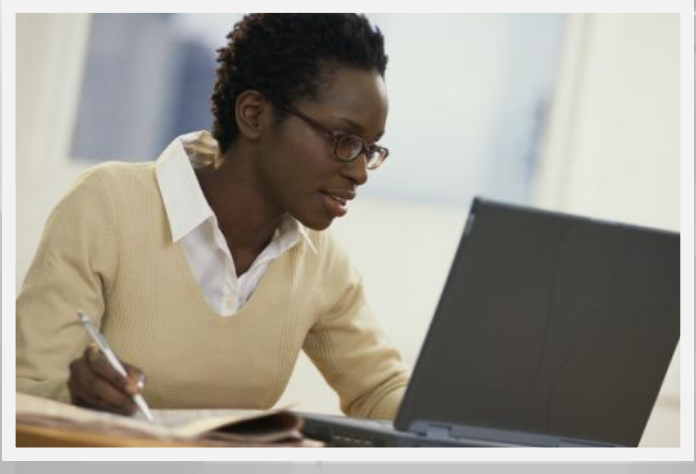

- ◆ The mandatory unit which you must complete for a full qualification.
- ◆ Optional units where you choose a number of units according to your personal needs.

There are an optional 28 units, each at three different levels meaning you can build the ITQ around your work, skills and knowledge at every step.

A further exciting opportunity within the ITQ is the ability to gain units at Level 1, Level 2 and Level 3 in all the same qualification. This means if you are working towards Level 2 and gain a Level 3 unit this will count towards Level 3 ITQ when you progress to that level.

Each unit is a mix of:

- ◆ Practical skills showing you can use IT
- ◆ Knowledge, showing you understand when, why and how to use IT effectively and safely
